CORE VALUES

A centre of excellence in arabic and islamic education

MISSION

To develop an Islamic educational framework in order to prepare religious scientists ('Ulama) who acquire, practice and propagate Islam, being alert of their ultimate responsibilities towards Almighty Allah and towards themselves, family, institution , society , surroundings and private and public resources and to make them capable of competing the shifting trends of modern education.

VISION

DHIU aims to be the bastion of expertise in Islamic education that they can restore the dynamic role and educational superiority of past Muslim society in all intellectual programs and that seeks to rekindle the spirit of scholarship in Islamic sciences in the era of ever-changing society due to the innovative growth of modern sciences.

VISIONARY LEADERS

DHIU aims to be the bastion of expertise in Islamic education that they can restore the dynamic role and educational superiority of past Muslim society in all intellectual programs and that seeks to rekindle the spirit of scholarship in Islamic sciences in the era of ever-changing society due to the innovative growth of modern sciences.

HISTORY

DHIU was established as an Islamic Academy in 1986 and formally upgraded to a university in May 2009. The philosophy upheld by DHIU was the unique product of prolonged discourses and deliberations among great visionary scholars and supportive community leaders who were deeply concerned about the dichotomous view towards education as religious and secular.

M.M. Basheer Musliyar was the founding president of Darul Huda Islamic Academy. Born to Ahmad Musliyar and Khadiyya on 3 rd February 1929 in the British India, he is considered among the most ever visionary leaders of Samastha Kerala Jam'iyyathul Ulama, the most influential religious organization of Kerala Muslims. He remained as a visionary reformer of Dars system (Muslim seminaries based at regional mosques) in Kerala. He was one of the key proponents of Sunni Mahallu Federation, a platform to coordinate different regional religious authorities. Having completed his primary education in supervision of his father, Musliyar simultaneously earned secular education from Govt. L.P. School of Cheroor, studied his upper primary in U.P . School of Vengara, and then JDT Islam Kozhikode. He was admitted in the Dars of Achanampalam village and later referred to Madrasa Baqiyath al- Swalihath in Vellore, Tamil Nadu for the higher education. Same like a typical Alim of the then Kerala, he started teaching in Dars system in many regions of the state like Achanambalam, Mattathur and Kondotty. Later, in 1972, he was invited to Rahmaniyya Arabic College at Kadameri in Calicut as Principal. His pioneering role in the foundation of DHIU is perceived as his most noteworthy contribution. He continued to be the Principal of Darul Huda Islamic Academy until his demise on 22 nd January 1987.
